Love requires Action

One of Aletheia's Core Values is „Relationships“. One important aspect of this value are our relationships within the church. One of our anchors is to build „Christ-Centered Community“.

However, over the last few weeks and months, it became obvious that we are not doing too well in this area. Therefore we want to address this topic now and become the church God wants us to be.

This Friday, we will get together to discuss as a church how we all feel about our relationships with other members and how we can improve in this aspect. The results of our discussion will then be the church's main focus for the next 6 months or longer. The results will also be included in our budget that we will approve at our annual Vision Partner Meeting.

To make the most of our time together, we have the following requests:

- Please honestly answer the questions we handed out today. There is no point in discussing how we can improve if we are all too polite to share problems with each other. If something or someone is bothering us, if we see a problem, if we think the church needs to improve in certain areas,... then please share it with everyone this Friday. We don't have to be rude. But we need to be honest.
- As much as it depends on you, we would like to encourage everyone to join us on Friday. We will make some important decisions, and the more people get involved in these decisions, the better.
- If you can't attend on Friday, then please send us your thoughts beforehand, so that we can consider your opinion in our discussions as well.

The meeting will be held this Friday, 6pm, at the Armbrusters' place (Dinner included). We are looking forward to seeing you there.
